GLAMOUR GIRL

DEE waited impatiently for Tom on the front porch of her house. Now and then her eyes caught those of her companion, Babs, and she would shrug her shoulders, sighing with the ageless futility of any female kept waiting by a tardy male.

"What are you getting so upset about?" asked Babs coolly. "Maybe he had a flat tire."

"Really, Babs!" her friend exclaimed in a provoked voice. Tom drove a battered bicycle weighted down by flags. If it went out of commission, Tom would have to walk all of four blocks to keep the appointment.

"Well, it happened to me last week," Babs reminded her, smoothing her long black hair with maddening laziness, as if she could just sit and wait like this for the rest of the afternoon.

"Yes, I know," Dee replied curtly. She couldn't help thinking that Babs had purposely led the conversation to this point so that Dee would remember the long, yellow convertible in which Harvey called for Babs to squire her to the Class Party. Harvey did have a flat on the road which delayed his arrival. Comparing him to Tom, however, was a joke. Harvey was tweedy jackets and hair pomade, while Tom was corduroy coats at best, and fuzzy crew cut. Of course, Tom had his good points, but he contrasted to Harvey like a juvenile actor does to a leading man.

"I don't think you appreciate Tom," said Babs. "You sort of take him for granted."

Dee blushed.

"What makes you think that?"

"Oh, the way you're annoyed now, for instance. Angry, not anxious, I mean."

"Well, why should I be so anxious over his coming here to loan me his history notes?"

"Silly! Anxious about Tom coming. That's what I meant. You're not." Babs waved her hand with casual airiness.

"Now look here, Babs. Tom is terrific date, and we have lots of good times together."

"You take him for granted," Babs insisted. "I saw the way you spent the evening last week dancing with that fellow Greg . . . you know the out-of-towner who came in for the party."

"There's nothing wrong with circulating around," Dee protested.

"Only you didn't circulate," said Babs with a knowing smile. "You and Greg were quite an item all night long until it came time for Old Reliable to take you home."

Dee giggled in spite of herself. "Old Reliable!" Perhaps she was beginning to feel that way about Tom. He was everything a girl could ask for in a date, really. Good company, good dancer, good talker, good friend. And she liked him a lot! There wasn't another fellow in town she would have preferred to Tom. He was really considerate, and she wouldn't hurt his feelings for the world. He hadn't said a word to her last week about her spending all her time with Greg, but that was like him, too. He was easy-going and not picky, like some of the fellows at school.

"Is Tom taking you to Janet's birthday party next Saturday?" asked Babs.

"I guess so," said Dee, wondering why Babs was suddenly probing her. She looked at Babs suspiciously.

"You're acting awfully mysterious."

"Why, Dee Randolph! Whatever makes you think that?"

"All this talk about me mistreating Tom for one thing and then you're suddenly asking if he's taking me to Janet's party. You know it's just sort of natural for Tom and me to go places together. He doesn't have to ask weeks in advance. I think you're leading up to something . . ."

Babs' cheeks colored in confusion, but at that moment there was an interruption. Tom's kid brother, Andy came dashing up the steps of the front porch and threw himself into a chair with the force of a bull and the smile of a lamb. He was Tom scaled down to nine-year-old size, and his good-natured charm excused the boisterousness of his ways.

"I brought the notes," he exclaimed triumphantly, waving an envelope in the air like a flag of victory. "Tom said to please excuse him, but he couldn't make it."

Dee felt a sudden tug of disappointment that surprised her. Funny, when you always counted on someone, how you never gave a thought to how you would feel if the person didn't show up.

"Is Tom all right?" she faltered.

"Oh, he's great," beamed Andy. "He's writing a letter to

HERE'S WHAT PSORIASIS SUFFERERS SAY ABOUT TROPISAN

"RESULTS FIRST WEEK; NOW MUCH BETTER!"

Question: I want to tell you how much Tropisan has helped me. My doctor said I had a chronic case of psoriasis. I even began to go out in winter.

Answer: I'll answer as though the time I started the medicine. From 1938 your advertisement in the paper and I ordered right away. I started seeing results the very first week after ordering the Tropisan. I began to see the relief. I am ordering another bottle. I will never be able to thank you enough for what you have done for me. I am grateful that I found Tropisan.

"YOUNG GIRL'S FACE NOW IMPROVED; FEELS REBORN!"

Question: I am a girl 21 years old and I have had psoriasis since I was 12 years old. I have tried many treatments and have never known a more pleasant and more helpful remedy than Tropisan. My face is clear and you know how important that is to a young girl. I feel like a new person.

Answer: I responded to it so people who have the same skin.

"LITTLE RESULTS AT FIRST; NOW AMAZING SUCCESS!"

Question: My wife and I have had the same psoriasis for many years. I kept taking and taking Tropisan and it did not seem to do much. I was just one more money-hungry doctor. But something told me to keep on taking it. I did.

Answer: I am amazed that all I can say is "amazing." Suddenly Tropisan took hold. The very worst began to go away. The psoriasis began to disappear. Today I feel like a new man.

TROPISAN

NEW HOPE FOR CRUSTS, SCALES — NO MESS, NO FUSS, SIMPLE SAFE EASY TABLET!

Proven "Effective Treatment"

Tropisan tablets taken as directed have proven to be an effective treatment in many thousand cases. Many of these psoriasis sufferers had tried ointments, unguents, lotions and external applications with little success. Now Tropisan tablets have proven themselves to be an "effective treatment" in the relief of external psoriasis symptoms.

Every Reported Case Stated That Tropisan Tablets Relieved Symptoms To Some Degree With Continuous Use

Even people who had suffered disappointment after disappointment with almost every type and variety of treatment . . . people whose crusts and scabs would not fade with other medications . . . now found Tropisan tablets relieved symptoms. Yes, the itching stopped, the crusts, scales, oozing, paled into invisibility . . . their friends forgot they had psoriasis.

Strikes at Internal Source — Not Just Surface Symptoms

Almost all medical doctors believe that psoriasis occurs because of internal causes, possibly faulty fat metabolism. Tropisan is designed to strike at this possible basic source—not just to act as a messy sticky goo for surface application. Every psoriasis sufferer wants the cause eliminated, not just the external symptoms.

that actress girl friend of his in New York."

"Oh." The word tumbled from Dee's open mouth like a hot potato. Actress girl friend, indeed!

"Yeah," said Andy, scratching his leg ambitiously. "She and her mother are coming here to spend the week end. Can't you just picture it? Mom says I better practice my grammar and forget about punch ball or I'll put them all to shame."

Babs leaned forward eagerly.

"Is she very beautiful?" she asked.

Andy's eyes narrowed to an intent squint. "She's an honest-to-goodness actress, television, stage and all. Her name is Ramona. If she's anything like the picture Tom has of her... WOW!"

After Andy took off with the speed of a skyrocket, Dee and Babs stared at one another uncertainly.

"You knew about this actress girl friend!" Dee accused. "You were holding back from telling me because you didn't want to embarrass me!"

"Well, I just wasn't sure if it was all true," Babs explained. "Tom's mother mentioned it to my mother... about this Ramona spending the week end at Tom's. Probably the mothers were old friends, Dee."

Dee's lips tightened. "Probably, nothing! He's writing letters to her, isn't he? And you heard what Andy said about her picture! I'll bet he's scrapped mine already!"

"Do you think he'll take Ramona to Janet's party?" blurted Babs.

"What do I care!" said Dee defiantly. "You and Harvey can pick me up. Now if you forgive me, we'll drop the subject completely and get on with these history notes."

For the next few days, Dee avoided any meeting with Tom. She saw the familiar sandy-colored head bobbing among a crowd of kids in the school cafeteria. Her heart flipped over with a regretful lurch, and she turned away quickly. Tom caught up with her one afternoon when she was walking home from school. He fell into stride beside her, grinning at her with the familiar smile that scattered the freckles up his cheeks in an appealing boyishness.

"I'm awfully sorry about the other afternoon. You see..."

"Andy explained," said Dee coldly. It was such a funny feeling not to be able to reach out and join hands. She deliberately pocketed her hand in her jacket so that they wouldn't have to go through with the pretense. Tom had another girl, and she might as well face it.

Tom's shoulders brushed hers as they walked along, and suddenly Dee realized that she would miss the warm feeling of liking Tom and having him like her and going places together. She had become so used to Tom that she had stopped looking at him as she could now, admiring the friendly twinkle of his eyes or the easy conversational drawl of his voice.

How could she ever have compared the sleek, careful sophistication of a boor like Greg with Tom? Greg had flattered her by quoting some stuffy compliments out of movies or books, but if Tom ever said she looked nice, he said it simply. In his eyes there used to be an honest, open admiration that meant more than glib words.

"What time can I pick you up on Saturday night?"

She was startled by the familiar words.

"Me?" she asked, her eyes wide, and her heart leaping with expectation. "I thought you were taking Ramona!"

"Where did you get an idea like that?" asked Tom with a laugh. "Her mother sent the folks a picture of Ramona in her latest glamour TV shot. Boy, do they use paint to make those pictures! Even to the phony eyelashes! Oh, I guess she's a nice kid really. Our folks have been friends for years. Anyway, I showed the picture to Janet's cousin and he's taking her to the party. Mom thought it would be nice if I wrote her a letter explaining the arrangements since I wouldn't be dating her. She's supposed to be my guest, but you know Mom. She's regular that way, and she knows that Ramona just isn't my type. How about eight o'clock, Dee? Pick you up then?"

Dee smiled. She removed her hand from her pocket.

"It's a date," she said happily, marveling at how good it was to have Tom take her hand in his as they walked along together.

Slimtex

Scientifically Firms Back,
Holds in Your Abdomen,
Slims the Waistline...

Slimtex with its revolutionary new design flattens out the waist and abdomen evenly and pushes the bulge back in where it belongs and not from one place to another. The tummy requires more hold-in in some areas and less in others. We designed Slimtex with variable stretch V panels—each having a different stretch to take care of the needs of each part of the abdomen. Those areas requiring more hold-in get a firmer V panel—those requiring less get a more flexible V panel. The result is an exciting and amazing new belt which for the first time really gives you a truly flat front, nips the waist and holds the back together firmly, but without constriction. You'll feel so comfortably light on your feet.

● HOW THE VARIABLE STRETCH V PANELS WORK

Imagine 3 pair of hands (see illustration) each holding a V shaped panel stretched across your abdomen. One pair of hands pull harder where there is more bulge. A second pair of hands pull another panel but less firmly. A third pair of hands now pull on the third panel they are holding but these pull just hard enough to even out what the other hands have redistributed.

FEEL WONDERFUL • YOUR OWN SELF AGAIN

You now feel wonderful — your own self again. Back, abdominal bulge and waist are properly and firmly but comfortably held-together. You feel so good and look inches slimmer. Once you slip into a Slimtex you'll never wear another belt. No steels, bones or buckles.
